GET BUSY NOW, AND FIGURE INCOME TAX

The Federal Income Tax season formally opened Thursday, January 22, with the distribution of the forms for personal returns. In summing up conditions under which returns must be made, Collector of Internal Revenue Justus S. Wardell said:

From now until the bell rings on the night of March 15th, the annual returns covering income for 1919 will be figured out and filed by citizens and residents, together with payments of tax due.

The burden of fulfilling this obligation is laid by law squarely on the shoulders of those who are American citizens or residents. Every person must determine for himself whether his net income for 1919, figured according to the Revenue law, was sufficient in amount to require a return.

If he is single, a return is required if his net income for 1919 was $1,000 or over. A widow or widower is classed as a single person. A man or woman living apart from his wife or husband is also classed as a single person.

If he was married and living with his wife on December 31, a return is required if his net income for 1919 was $2,000, or over. In his net income he must include that of his wife and minor children, if any.

If a tax is due on his income, he must make payment with his return. This payment may be made in whole or in part of the tax due. At least one-quarter of the tax must accompany the return.

The filing and paying must be done before midnight of March 15, or he is classed as a delinquent and is subject to severe penalties.

It is urged by the Internal Revenue Bureau that taxpayers obtain their blanks at once.

LAKE VALLEY RANCHER ACCUSED OF KILLING ADAMS & M'GILL STOCK

Sheriff Enslow returned to Ely yesterday from Lake Valley, bringing Mike Urrutia, charged with killing cattle belonging to the Adams-McGill company.

From evidence submitted to District Attorney Edwards it appears Urrutia was discovered peddling beef in Ely without a license and when required to produce the hide of the animal as required by law he could not do so. He was taken into custody and investigation made with the discovery that the hide of the animal was found in his cabin on a ranch near Geyser in Lincoln county.

Sheriff Enslow communicated with the sheriff of Lincoln county and met him Friday at the Urrutia ranch where the arrest was made and the suspected man turned over to the authorities of White Pine county.

Urrutia was brought to Ely and lodged in the county jail to await his preliminary examination.

"DOC" BAILEY HUNTS BAD CHECK ARTIST

Under Sheriff Bailey left for Antelope valley yesterday to apprehend the sheep herder who gave up a worthless check to pay the grazing tax on a band of sheep. The under sheriff, while collecting sheep tax last week, could not well refuse to take the sheep man's check as he was not supposed to carry cash about the range with him, but when "Doc" on his return to Ely discovered no funds for the check he immediately did a Barney Oldfield in the county car for the confidence man.

CHESTERS GIVEN SURPRISE AT THE THREE C RANCH

The Three C ranch was the scene of a merry party last evening, when friends and neighbors of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Chester, from East Ely, paid them a surprise visit. The evening was passed with dancing, games and sumptuous refreshment, and Mr. and Mrs. Chester were presented with a gift as a testimonial of good will. The Chesters, who have been long at the Three C, are leaving for a new location, Mr. Chester having accepted the position as manager of the Adams and McGill ranch at Hot Creek. The event was a farewell send-off to the genial couple, whose hospitality on numerous past occasions is pleasantly remembered by many.

Happenings in Society Circles

Announcement of Mrs. W. H. Seagrave's intended visit in Ely within the next few days was happily received by Mrs. Seagrave's large circle of friends who always extend a cordial welcome to the expected visitor, who will be the guest of her sister, Mrs. Frank Roper.

Mrs. David Young and little daughter, Dorothy, who have made an extended visit at the home of Mr. and Mrs. John Weber, will depart for their home, in Indianola, Iowa, Monday morning.

Mrs. Young's visit has given pleasure to her Ely friends, who have accorded her many delightful social courtesies during her visit and note her departure with regret.

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Smith are enjoying the pleasure of a visit from their daughter, Mrs. Norman Lester Dorn, who will spend a fortnight with her parents.

Miss Madge Smith presided at a charming pre-nuptial affair given in honor of Miss Mildred Wetmore and Creighton Whitmore Friday evening, when she entertained with a dinner at her home in East Ely, which was one of the most beautiful compliments extended to the bridal couple-elect. A pink color scheme was daintily perfected in a centerpiece of pink roses and ferns with pink nut baskets and place cards daintily contributing a note to the chosen color scheme, which was so harmoniously characterized in the dinner. Seated with the hostess and the honor guests were Mr. and Mrs. Carroll Morrill, (Miss Lillian Devlin, Lester Kabislus and Elton Harls.

Mrs. Frank Roper was the hostess to the Wednesday Sewing Club at its meeting the past week, when a few non-club members also enjoyed Mrs. Roper's hospitality. After a period of needlework and games, delicious refreshments were served, and Mrs. Young was presented with a dainty bit of Maderia linen. Mrs.

SAND AT DEPTH INDICATES OIL, IS BELIEF OF ILLIPAH DRILLERS

George A. Foster of the Illipah Basin Oil and Gas company made a trip to the drill yesterday afternoon with several visitors and gave out the report that the well is now down 200 feet, with operations going along smoothly. Three shifts will be put on next week, Mr. Foster does not claim to be able to see any deeper into the ground than the ordinary man, but he is very optimistic over the showing that is being made as the drill goes down. The drill is still in the strata of sand and has held this sand for 75 feet with indications of oil. This is the first slight jolt to the theory that the natural basin had been at one time drained by volcanic action south of the anticlines. The theory was that while the surface shales held the oil, the stratas of sand would be found dry.

Encountering sand at a depth of a little over 100 feet is a good indication to the experts that the drill has been placed at the apex of the anticline and the indications of oil in the sand strata at the highest point would indicate that the volcanic action if there was such had not destroyed the oil basin.

Several eminent geologists have failed to find the reported indications of volcanic action.

During the local oil excitement much has been said of the report of J. W. Trumbull, state geologist of Wyoming, who it is claimed, turned down Illipah as an oil prospect, but few have a definite idea of just what the report was. The following is reported to be a true copy of the statement of Mr. Trumbull and as an oil man remarked to a representative of the News, "The man who can decide whether the report is for or against the prospect is some one well versed in the technical synonyms of lexicography".

"When in Ely I saw no structure which I considered worthy of drill test. There is, however, a series of petroliferous shales exposed for many miles, which are worthy of test, can they be found in good structure under proper depth and cover. This I explained to the people interested and they feel it will fulfill the requirements.

"Their part of the state is flooded into long parallel anticlines and synclines. The shales occur along the crest of an eroded anticline. They are Devonian in age, but undoubtedly petroliferous in character. The above is about all I can tell you. You can best judge whether you care to make the trip or not. If they have found the shale series under proper structural conditions, I think the chance a good one. The exposed shale areas I do not think worth drilling."

The bringing in of oil at 1,150 feet at Moab, Utah, a few days ago smashes another geologist's theory to smithereens.

Several geologists in the past have held that no oil would ever be found in the great basin, lying between the Rockies and the Sierras. Moab, Utah, lies well within this area and in the same nature of country as Illipah, making it more nearly certain that Illipah will strike oil.

Work on the Illipah well will be pushed diligently next week when three shifts will be put to work on the drill and the hole sent down to "kick another theory to death with a fact."

Courses in home nursing have been inaugurated through the efforts of the White Pine and McGill chapters of the Red Cross. These courses include home hygiene and the care of the sick and will probably be started about the first week in February. The courses will be given by a certified Red Cross nurse from the Pacific headquarters who will visit the county, giving a series of lectures and demonstrations.

A number of classes will be organized and two lessons a week will be given to each class, the course thus occupying a period of seven and a half weeks. Instruction will be entirely free, the only expense to the students being for a text book, the cost of which is 65 cents in paper cover or $1 for a cloth-bound book.

The plan for this district as at present outlined is for the nurse to spend two days of each week at McGill, three days at Ely and one at Ruth.

More than 5,000 women in the Pacific division have registered in the American Red Cross course in home hygiene and care of the sick, according to reports from Red Cross chapters filed with the division headquarters. It is being enthusiastically received everywhere and offers an opportunity to secure while living at home and practically without expense, instruction which could not be obtained except by going to a city and spending a considerable sum for the instruction itself, besides railroad fare and living expenses.

Those intending to take the course are requested to notify Mrs. Mollie S. Rogers, secretary of the White Pine chapter at Ely, or to D. Boyd-Smith, secretary of McGill chapter, at McGill, in order that the classes may be formed and all arrangements completed before the arrival of the nurse. Immediate action is necessary for those desiring to take advantage of the opportunity.

The entire expenses of this practical course of education is borne by the Red Cross and any woman or girl who resides in the Ely district is eligible for membership.

CO-OPERATION IS REMEDY FOR ARMY OF PROFFITEERS

Charles M. Kelley, in his Weekly News Letter of the Plum Plan League, has the following to say concerning the high cost of living and suggestions for a remedy:

"Slowly, but none the less surely, labor has awakened to the fact that no relief is to be expected through governmental agencies from the merciless exploitation to which they are now subjected.

"Officials of the four railroad brotherhoods and the ten shop crafts affiliated with the American Federation of Labor have determined to seek a solution through co-operative buying, production and distribution. In this movement the rail works will have the assistance of numerous farm organizations. The All-American Farmer-Labor Co-operative Commission has been created to inaugurate a vigorous campaign for direct dealing between farm producers and city consumers.

Geraghty and Wilson have just completed the new garage on Aultman street, where they will make a specialty of cleaning and polishing automobiles. Storage facilities are also afforded. A gasoline service station has been erected in the vacant space in front of the building, after the pattern of those of California, with driveway on both sides, thus affording easy access to the supply. Gasoline and all kinds of oils will be handled, and an employee will be in attendance day and night.

The garage will be known as the De Lux service station and will be open for business about the first of February.

Offices have been opened at Washington and a call is out for a conference to be held at Chicago, February 12, at which several hundred delegates will be in attendance."
